

PROMINENT BUSINESS MAN OF REDWOOD CITY DIES AT SAN JOSE

Fortunato Greco, Old Resident of This Community Goes to Final Rest Thursday Evening

A pioneer resident of San Mateo county passed away Thursday night at the Ocean View Sanatorium in San Jose. This was Fortunato Greco, a well known business man of Redwood, who succumbed to an attack of paralysis following a long illness. Greco suffered a stroke about the 24 of this month and never recovered consciousness. He had been engaged in business in Redwood for the past 25 years, being owner of the Greco Salt Works at this city as well as large real estate holdings. He was a native of Italy and about 70 years of age. The deceased is survived by three sons, owners of the Alba cannery in San Jose.

The framework of the new school auditorium is going up this week. Especially welcome news, as there has been no meeting place in the colony for months. It is being built large enough to meet the needs of the colony as a civic center and it is to be completed early in November. Raspberries are being shipped to the precooling plant at Mountain View almost daily for eastern shipment.

COMING EVENTS ANNOUNCED FOR PACIFIC CITY

One of the best outdoor acts ever presented in the west will feature the program of entertainment at Pacific City this Saturday and Sunday. Hawaiian divers are plentiful, but none has ever put on a more thrilling performance than that which will be given at the beach resort by "Valcan," who comes heralded as the man who plunges from the sky.

Valcan dives from a platform 102 feet in the air. In his descent he turns a complete backward somersault and lands in a small tank 5 feet deep. He will give both afternoon and evening performances. At night the platform and tank are illuminated.

For next Saturday and Sunday Pacific City has arranged a Hawaiian carnival that will transform the big park into a tropical island. Hawaiian singers, dancers, musicians, surf board riders and swimmers are on the bill, which promises to attract one of the seasons largest crowds.

Pacific City, with an attendance in excess of 900,000 prior to September 15, has set a goal of 1,000,000 attendance by October 1.

With the inauguration of dining service on the good ship "Ocean Wave," which is moored at Pacific City pier, the popularity of the beach resort has increased. The new social dance each Wednesday night also has boosted the attendance record.

H. C. HALL RESIGNS TO GO TO SAN BRUNO

H. C. Hall, Jr., the popular young principal of the Halfmoon Bay grammar school, has resigned to become supervising principal of the San Bruno school. The young man is accounted one of the ablest teachers in the county. The Halfmoon Bay Review has this to say of the young educator:

"H. C. Hall, Jr., principal of the Halfmoon Bay grammar school since 1916, resigned this position yesterday to accept the supervising principalship of the San Bruno public schools. His resignation has been accepted by the trustees to take effect as soon as his successor is appointed. Mr. Hall during his term of nearly seven years as head of our public schools has endeared himself to pupils and parents alike by his efficient work in the schoolroom and by his close association with the pupils on the school grounds has gained their respect and comradeship. In the attitude of the school, which have attained a very creditable standard, he was one of the students, leading them always as a big brother in the spirit of good clean sport—a spirit which makes for better men and women. It is only because the new position offers a larger field that Mr. Hall has accepted it. The district of San Bruno is the gainers and we wish Mr. Hall and his family all success in their new field."

GREAT INTEREST BEING SHOWN IN TIMES-GAZETTE'S TRAVEL CLUB

Miss Nancy Nunn Leading Over Other Contestants With Miss Marion Quinlan a Close Second

Are you one of the live wires who have commenced work in the Times-Gazette Travel Club or are you still thinking it over?

Better make up your mind while there is still plenty of time. Or if your name has not been entered do not wait for some one else to nominate you but cut out a nomination blank from the Times-Gazette and send it in today.

There is still plenty of time to join the club and win the first prize. It is the easiest thing in the world to get points at present.

As an instance of what may be done at this stage of the game, Miss Marion Quinlan of Halfmoon Bay was just nominated this week as a member of the club and with a few days work has already taken her place next to the leader of the entire list.

Miss Quinlan is one of the most popular girls of Halfmoon Bay and her friends are predicting success for her.

Miss Nancy Nunn, assistant in the office of the county clerk and living at Atherton, heads the entire list. Mrs. Wentworth is third and Miss Shelley is fourth. This means that were the campaign closing today each of these four would receive a trip. Where will YOUR name be on October 19, the day the campaign closes? And that is but four weeks from now.

A little hard and successful work on the part of any candidate would place her in the lead at the present time, as the club members are standing so close now that if you have been merely thinking of going to work now is the time to do so, while there are still thousands of votes to be had for the asking. In a week or two it will not be so easy to get them.

Mrs. Frank Wentworth has many friends who are working for her and Miss Shelley, the assistant librarian is well known and liked throughout the county.

There are several new entries since the last list was published and some who for various reasons have dropped out.

Miss Margaret Fisher of Belmont is one of the new club members who has many points to her credit. Miss Fisher is well known and was very successful in the various drives during the war and has many friends who are interested in her success.

Miss Pearl George of Redwood City is another who is receiving the support of many friends and although she was only nominated this week her standing is already high.

Miss Josephine Simmons, assistant in the county recorder's office, has a fine beginning and is among the highest, although she is also a new entrant.

Miss Grace Studman at the telephone office, a new entry, has many votes to her credit, and Mrs. M. E. Rogers, wife of the principal of the grammar school at Pescadero, has started with a goodly number of points to her credit. Her friends are predicting a strong race.

Miss Margaret Holmquist is already high up on the list.

There are several of those whose names were announced last week who have made a notable gain; among them being Miss Loretta Williams, Miss Mary Jane Stafford, Miss Underhill, Miss Stillson and Miss Alice Perry, who has come up from the lowest in the list to near the top.

Miss Rosa Broggi of Menlo Park has gained many points this week and Miss Walsh of the same place has also gained nicely.

veloped into an eloquent speaker. The young attorney will make a decided impression wherever he may speak. Mr. Gallagher is to be admired for his courage in taking the stump for the minority party in the state which is certain to fail in the election of its candidate for governor. Mr. Woolwine has very little chance to be elected, even though he does stand on a wet plank.

And it will be seen by the two most fortunate winners of Times-Gazette Travel Club.

CHANGES HIS PARTY

Lasher Gallagher, formerly court reporter for the superior court of this county, but now a practicing attorney in San Francisco, has become a Democrat to vote for Woolwine, the Democratic candidate for governor. Mr. Gallagher has been a Republican for years. He is to stump the state for Woolwine. He has

SHORTDRIDGE ON BONUS

One of the spiciest speeches made in the U. S. Senate during the debate on the soldiers' bonus bill was delivered by Samuel M. Shortridge. It was an eloquent and forcible address that was listened to by the entire senate. The boys who responded to their country's call have no greater champion in the senate than Mr. Shortridge, who is ever ready to serve them with his voice and with his vote. The following are portions of his able address:

"Pause for a moment, Mr. President, to recall the Great War. The earth trembled beneath the tread of mighty armies. The Old World, which should have been the cradle of wisdom, was in flames. Diplomacy, secret and sinister, had failed. Above fertile fields red with brothers' blood, above fragrant meadows wet with women's tears, above ruined cottages and palaces, profaned temples and cathedrals, above but within hearing of the carnage and agony of war, angels hovered and cried: 'Peace on earth; good will toward men.'"

"But the roar of cannon, the shriek of shell, drowned those heavenly voices, and death smote the young and fair, the old and feeble. The fields of Europe were furrowed by war's hot plowshare. The very structure of civilization, erected by the toil and genius of centuries, trembled and tottered to its fall. At first the danger to us was remote. We stood aloof and maintained a strict neutrality. But the danger came nearer, and finally we were engulfed. We called upon the manhood of the nation. They—these young men to reward whom this bill is designed—responded to their country's call. They came from city, village, from factory and farm, from mine and forest, from all ranks and conditions of life, from every state in the union. We sent them forth to war with our blessings and our prayers.

"Many of them crossed the ocean; they fought; God, how they fought; through dangers and darkness, with undaunted courage and unsurpassed devotion to duty, under great leaders they carried on; they knew no such word as retreat or failure; they welcomed death if death could contribute to victory; they carried on and on until the radiant morning of victory again blessed the undefeated flag of our country. They returned home to the land they had defended. We welcomed them with outstretched arms; we strewed flowers in their way to tread upon; reverently we thanked God that He had led them through the 'valley and shadow of death' and brought them in safety home.

"Mr. President, we cannot pay the debt we owe—the debt of gratitude, the debt of honor, the debt a mighty nation, saved by their valor, owes its sons. But we can try to do so; we can in part discharge our obligation, and this we can do in manner contemplated by this bill without emptying our treasury or impairing our credit.

"No, Mr. President. To dismiss that suggestion, there is no dishonor in our giving it. If it be a gift, and there is no dishonor in accepting, even though it be a gift. If I love my son, I give to him; nor am I dishonored, nor is he; and if this nation, as the parent, loves its sons and chooses to give to them, so much more the honor, so much more the glory of giver and of gift. Let us exalt patriotism by a very great national act. Let us, by showing our great love, teach our children to love, and serve, and suffer, and die for the flag, hallowed and sanctified by blood of unnumbered dead and living soldiers, heroes who lifted and kept it where it is triumphant in the sky.

"Let us no longer hesitate; let us no longer delay; let us no longer miserly consider; but let us, as becomes a great and prosperous nation and as a righteous and grateful nation, recognize the incalculable service rendered to this union by its soldiers and sailors. Let us pass this bill. Mr. President, before tomorrow's sun shall set, and be well assured that the people of this nation will approve our act.

"Mr. President, this is not a political bill; it is not a partisan measure, I am not speaking as a republican; but, above all party distinctions and faith, I am standing here as an American and an American senator. The boys of California, did they go as republicans or as democrats? The boys of Alabama, did they go as democrats or republicans? No, Mr. President, even as the mothers and fathers, regardless of party, gave, so the boys, the young men, Americans all, patriots all, served their country as Americans; they stand as Americans, and this measure is designed to recognize and in part reward the glorious service rendered by them as Americans. Let us pass this bill as a great American measure, recognizing American valor, recognizing American heroism, and we shall have done our duty, and our country and history will applaud."

SHURTLEFF TO RUN

Judge Charles A. Shurtleff, at present a member of the supreme court of California, is a candidate to succeed himself in one of the two long term justiceships to be filled at the general election in November. Formal word of his intention to continue the fight for retention on the supreme bench was issued this week in the following statement:

"The result of the primary vote of August 29 last on the contests for associate justices of the supreme court leaves no question in my mind as to my duty to continue my candidacy to retain my place on the supreme bench.

"Under our state's election system the primary was necessary, but it decided nothing. It eliminated no candidate and it placed no candidate in a dominant lead over any other candidate. There are two places to be filled on the supreme bench and presumably these will be sought by four candidates.

"The indicated preference of 230,000 electors for my retention on the supreme bench constitutes an obligation to merit the continued support of these electors and to ask for the suffrage of others of my fellow citizens at the general election in November which I cannot under any circumstances disregard.

"If such consideration were not sufficient to shape my decision in this regard, the hundreds of requests to continue in the race and fresh assurances of active support would be an additional call which I should find it impossible to ignore.

"I am, therefore, a candidate for election to one of the vacancies in the supreme court which will ensue the first of the year. I have occupied the position of associate justice since July, 1921, and I desire to continue in the service of the state in that capacity, if the electors approve.

"Consequently I ask for the supporting vote of my fellow citizens upon my record as a citizen, as a lawyer of 35 years' standing in the profession and as a present associate justice of the supreme court."

Announcement of Judge Shurtleff's active participation in the campaign between now and November 7 follows the return from Los Angeles of Richard W. Barrett, campaign manager of the Shurtleff organization. Despite repeated urgings from all over California that he declare immediately his intention to continue his campaign for election, Judge Shurtleff delayed final action until Barrett reached San Francisco.

Judge Shurtleff is now serving as associate justice of the supreme court, filling the unexpired term of Justice Warren Olney, Jr., resigned. The vote polled at the primary election for Judge Shurtleff inspires confidence in his election in November.

THE SHERIFF'S CAMPAIGN

As the sheriff's office is the only fight which is causing any excitement in the politics of the county and will probably be the most interesting and hotly contested campaign of the election, we have given the matter serious thought and we believe that Frank Roach of Menlo Park is the man for the office. His superior business ability, a most important asset in the conduct of any office, his fearlessness and judgment of human nature, certainly qualify him for the position to which he aspires. Roach's honesty in beyond reproach, as evidenced by the tremendous vote given him in his home town at the primary election. His coolness and judgment under trying circumstances have been shown on many occasions and his qualifications for the office are ample.

Summing up we believe that Frank Roach is the man for this position and this paper will give him its undivided support in his campaign.

OPPOSES AMENDMENT

Frank R. Devlin, former president of the state railroad commission, is out with a statement against the water and power act. He asserts that the proposed measure, if enacted into law, would repel outside investors and thus hamper the development of the state. His statement reads:

"Unquestionably the water and power act, if adopted, would result in an experiment by this state—an experiment which would take many years to determine whether it would prove a success or a failure. In the meantime investment in privately owned public utilities would be much retarded, if not practically stopped. 'Any person considering what the effect of the adoption of the act in this regard would be might well ask himself whether the day after the adoption of the act he would invest his $100,000 or $1,000 or $10,000 of savings in the securities of a California power or water utility. It seems to me the answer would be that he would hesitate to see what effect the new legislation would have upon the business welfare of the utility in which he was considering investing.

"It is not reasonable to expect that a similar course of reasoning would not be indulged in by large groups of investors who aid in the financing of these utilities to the extent of millions? If financing is stopped, extensions of the utilities is stopped, with the resulting retarding and stoppage of development where power is needed. Those who have become accustomed to investing in public utility securities would naturally seek investment in states where such experiments were not being conducted, to the detriment of California."

"Regardless of the difficulties that were encouraged by the regulatory body of this state during the war period and the period of readjustment, I believe that state regulation of public utilities by the state regulatory body has been demonstrated a success. The state is going ahead rapidly under public regulation, and such regulation has survived the severest test that it could probably ever be put to."

If you look into the life of the man who is fearful that he will not be properly respected, you will frequently find that the reason is that he doesn't deserve respect.

COUNTY SUPERVISORS TRANSACT LARGE AMOUNT OF REGULAR BUSINESS

The board of supervisors met on Saturday with only three members present, these being Supervisors Brown, Francis and Thompson. The minutes of the meeting of July 24, August 7, 11, 21 and 31 and of September 1 and 2, which had been laid over at the previous meetings due to the press of business, were read and approved.

The motion of Supervisor Rosalie Brown, seconded by Supervisor Francis, the applications for state aid recommended by the county social service commission were ordered approved.

A communication from the state department of health was received regarding the plan for the construction of a tuberculosis pavilion at the hospital, calling attention to the law in cases and suggesting that the plan be submitted to that board before the work was ordered done. This communication was ordered until future date that the matter be taken up with Architect.

Complying with the request of the board, District Attorney Franklin presented an opinion regarding the authority of the board to construct sidewalks, safety stations and other things along the state highway. A petition having been presented by Belmont residents asking that such work be done. Swart said the board that it was in the power to order the work done, and that it could be paid for out of the district road fund, out of the general fund or on the district assessment plan at the discretion of the board. In order that this matter be discussed at a full meeting the board it was continued until September 25, when a special meeting will be held.

A claim against the county library presented by Mrs. B. A. Griffin was ordered paid. Tax Collector was ordered to leave his office for the purpose of collecting taxes in the various districts and in the principal cities of the county. This was laid on motion of Supervisor Francis, seconded by Supervisor Francis.

Plans and specifications for construction of a box culvert at Corte Madera creek where it crosses Fitzpatrick road leading from Menlo Park to Alpine, were presented by Surveyor George A. Kneese. These plans were accepted by the board and the clerk instructed to advertise for bids for the work, which was specified to be paid for out of the third district road fund. The matter of a census of automobiles desired by the bureau of public works was brought up by the county surveyor and continued until the next meeting.

Supervisor C. V. Thompson requested that County Surveyor Kneese investigate a culvert on the road between La Honda and San Gregorio. This was ordered done on motion of Supervisor Francis, seconded by Supervisor Brown.

The recommendation of the county social service commission, which was continued from the last meeting, was accepted. This recommendation covers the money necessary to the operation of the commission during the coming year and provides an increase in salary for the executive secretary and the office secretary.

District Attorney Swart in answer to a request for an opinion in the matter of the installation of electric service at Boreford, informed the board that this matter was in the hands of the state highway commission and that the commission gave the Pacific Gas and Electric Company the right to refuse service in isolated districts unless the residents of the districts would defray the cost of constructing the lines. Supervisor Brown suggested that the matter be asked to come to the main high electric company to determine the existing conditions.

A communication from the state employment survey regarding unemployment in the county was referred to the social service for reply. There being no further business the board adjourned until Monday, September 25.

K. OF C. TO CELEBRATE

The flying squadron of the Knights of Columbus of San Mateo county visited San Francisco Council No. 615 Tuesday night for the purpose of celebrating the celebration to be held by them on October 8 at Pacific City. The members of the squadron were costumed in the dress of the 15th century and made quite a hit with their San Francisco brethren. Among the speakers of the evening were Lawrence Cahill, chairman of the committee, J. J. Harris, past grand knight, and Thomas Branson, present grand knight. The pageant will be historically correct as replicas of Columbus' boats, the Santa Maria, Pinta and Nina, will be used. Horace Amphlett of San Mateo will portray the part of Columbus and a hundred soldiers and sailors will be on the boats. Members of the Order of Red Men will take the part of Indians.

Besides this part of the program there will be various athletic sports such as racing, wrestling, etc.

SKYLINE BOULEVARD

The state highway commission has called for bids for the construction of the Skyline Boulevard from the Sneath place to the Halfmoon Bay road. The rights of way have now all been acquired and the present contract is for grading only. The right of way from the end of the Junipero Serra highway in San Francisco has been graded and next year will have the concrete and asphalt so that no legal obstacles stand in the way of the Skyline Boulevard through San Mateo county, phat laid.

Before work could be begun on the new stretch of road it was necessary for the supervisors of San Mateo county to declare that the road was the accepted right of way. District Attorney Franklin Swart had the board of supervisors take the necessary action the first meeting of September.

At your Finger Tips

THERE IS GREAT PLEASURE on cold, frosty mornings in just reaching out from your warm bed to press a button and start heat on its way up from the basement. This comfort is a constant delight in homes that are equipped with electrically-controlled gas furnaces.

Gas furnaces supply clean, fresh air through pipes to all the rooms of your house. No heat escapes into the basement, and the incoming air never comes in contact with the gas flame or fumes.

The electrical control of gas furnaces enables you to get low heat, medium heat, or high heat by pressing one or two buttons.

Tell us how many rooms you have to heat, and we will tell you what size furnace you need, what it will cost, etc. Thousands of these furnaces are in daily use in California. Some of them are in your neighborhood. Ask us where they are.

His old friends welcome him back to the village of beautiful oaks.

Woodside Chirps

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McIntosh and their daughter, Allison, who have been spending the summer at their place here, are planning to return to the city on October 1.

Mrs. Clara B. Hooper, who has been ill for many months in San Francisco, has decided that it will be impossible for her to return to Woodside and so has determined to sell her property here. Mrs. Hooper is very much attached to Woodside and has refused many offers for her property in the past.

Mrs. Louise St. John, wife of the pastor of the Woodside church, celebrated her 75th birthday on Sunday last. She was the recipient of many congratulations and of a little gift from the ladies of the church.

Peter Koehorst, who before coming to Woodside was a farmer in Canada, thinks he can farm here as well as in the north. He has purchased a small farm from the Spring Valley Company, near the Searsville lake, has built himself a house and farm buildings and has moved his family to the new location, fully determined to show the natives of this valley what real farming is.

Mr. Dickman of San Francisco, who a short time ago purchased the Fazio property on the Canyada road, is making extensive improvements in both the house and the grounds surrounding.

Frank Pierce, who has been for seven months in a San Francisco hospital, has returned to Woodside. He has concluded that Woodside air is more effective than hospital treatment. He is staying at the home of his relative, James O'Donnell.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Swan gave a bridge party on last Saturday night. Those invited were Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Jarvis, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rosa, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Allen have invited a group of friends to help them celebrate the fifth anniversary of their marriage on this Saturday evening.

Nat Messer of San Francisco, who rented the Abecassis place for the summer, finds our climate so much to his liking that he will extend his stay into November.

Mrs. John D. Gish is singing this week at the synagogue in San Francisco, the special musical services in celebration of the Jewish new year.

At the fork of the roads where the road leading to King's Mountain separates itself from that going to La Honda stands one of the historic buildings of Woodside. The place is known locally as "the dobe corner" and on it stands a building which has occupied the site from that time (to use the stately language of the law books) "whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary." It is built partly of adobe bricks and partly of timbers, some of which came from the first sawmill erected at Woodside. Sometimes it has been occupied and often has been tenanted. Recently the house has been renovated and at present has a tenant as interesting in his way as the house itself.

The present occupant is Leslie C. Burnett, a descendant of Peter Burnett, first American governor of the state of California. This young man volunteered from San Francisco at the very beginning of the war and was among the first contingents sent to France. He fought there in many engagements and finally was taken to the hospital with nine serious wounds of the body received from pieces of a high explosive shell. A double handful of steel fragments were so deeply embedded that it was considered too dangerous to remove them and these he still carries. He has been in several hospitals in this country and has received vocational training from the government. He is recuperating here, trying to regain the physical strength that will enable him to follow the work for which he has been trained.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Raymond and family spent the two holidays at Santa Cruz and Monterey.

Members of the Palo Alto Rotary Club were guests of W. B. Allen at his ranch near Portola recently. J. H. Buckner, a noted memory expert, gave a short, informal talk before the Rotarians. Dinner was served at 12:15. Roger M. Roberts and W. B. Allen were in charge of the program.

Harry J. Naylor of San Mateo and Gertrude Hoffman of this city have obtained a marriage license in San Francisco.

Pescadero Pebbles

Pescadero has all the appearance of being on the eve of a revival of its former prestige in the county. Things are moving with a rapidity and in a direction that is causing enthusiastic comment from various quarters.

To date the chief indications of renewed vigor are evidenced in the presence of the new high school, a new meat market and the prospective reconstruction of the hotel, bringing with it rumors of a bank and a drug store.

The high school, under the administration of Mr. Williams, has an enrollment of 17 pupils, comprising freshmen, sophomores and junior classes, and is progressing in a very healthy manner.

The district which the school represents takes in a good part of the county—roughly, from La Honda to the sea and so on to the "line." This area is taken care of by a system of school buses, driven by several of the boys—Elbert Pinkham and John Nixon from down the "coast," and Edward Blomquist from up in the hills.

The spirit of the comparatively small student body of the Pescadero Union High School is nicely represented in the following verses, which deserve to be "broadcasted."

To P. U. H. S.
By Thelma Crandall
Dear little high school beside the sea,

What joys and pleasures I bring to me,
Your books and studies I just adore,
And each day I love you more and more.

Your beautiful colors—"Caribbean and Blue,"
Just seem to thrill me through and through.

And if some time I'm far away,
I'll wish you luck the livelong day
And when I turn each yellowing page
In my lengthening book of memory,
How dearly, then, shall I think of you.

Little high school beside the sea! C. H. Lucas, formerly connected with the Palace Meat Market in Redwood City, is the proprietor of the meat market just established in a shop formerly belonging to James McCormick's estate. The shop has been very attractively renovated.

Considerable speculation is being entered into throughout the community relative to the chance of ownership of the hotel and the introduction of the bank and drugstore. According to Hugh McCormick, the first is an assured fact which he welcomes after a number of years of strenuous hotel labors.

The new management it is alleged, is an association of Bonagalli and a number of prominent local men.

Thomas Johnston, Horace Nelson, M. J. Bettineourt and John Souza were all visitors from the coast side last Thursday.

The cottage of John Paganni of Phelps street was destroyed by fire last Thursday. Among other effects which were lost in the blaze was $300 in currency. Paganni is employed at the court house.
